This document provides information about the technologies that allow this Application to achieve the purposes described below. These technologies enable the Owner to collect and store information (e.g., through the use of Cookies) or utilize resources (e.g., by executing a script) on the User's device when interacting with this Application.

For simplicity, these technologies are collectively referred to in this document as "Tracking Tools," unless there is a reason to differentiate them.

For example, while Cookies can be used in both web and mobile browsers, it would be inaccurate to refer to Cookies in the context of mobile applications, as these are Tracking Tools that require the presence of a browser. Therefore, in this document, the term "Cookie" is used exclusively to refer to this specific type of Tracking Tool.

Some of the purposes for which Tracking Tools are used may require the User's consent. If consent is given, it can be freely withdrawn at any time by following the instructions provided in this document.

This Application uses only Tracking Tools directly managed by the Owner (commonly referred to as "first-party Tracking Tools").

The duration and expiration of first-party Cookies and other similar Tracking Tools may vary depending on the settings defined by the Owner. Some of them expire at the end of the User's browsing session.
